Appellant Orlando Hadley (“Hadley”) was convicted by a jury of four counts of recklessly exposing another person to HIV in violation of Mo. Rev. Stat. § 191.677. Hadley appeals the verdict and sentence.

AFFIRMED.

DIVISION TWO HOLDS: The circuit court did not err in allowing into evidence during the guilt phase of the trial any witness statements contained in Hadley’s medical records because Hadley could not show that such evidence affected the outcome of the trial. Similarly, the trial court did not err in allowing at the sentencing phase of trial witness statements contained in medical records because Hadley could not demonstrate prejudice.
